NGA and CGC Qualifications for Court-Appointed Guardians 28

Preamble

Developing standards for guardians has been an ongoing challenge for the National Guardianship Association (NGA). Not only has the profession undergone rapid change since the original seven standards were written in 1991, but the basic issues have been, and remain, imprecise and difficult to define for a national, membership-based organization. A basic philosophical element complicating the process has been the need to strike a consistent balance between standards that represent an ideal and those that recognize practical limitations, whether for a family guardian or for a professional guardian.

In July of 1991, the NGA adopted a previously published Code of Ethics to guide guardians in their decision-making process. The next task of the NGA was to formulate specific standards to be applied in the day-to-day practice of guardianship. The seven original standards of practice that were written and adopted by the NGA in 1991 have now been expanded to cover more of the duties and responsibilities that face court-appointed guardians today.

The same lengthy discussions that took place in 1991 occurred again during each updating of the standards. These discussions centered on the need to state what is "right" versus the need to recognize and accept the inevitability of the status quo-- too many clients, not enough funding or staff. While we all agree that such restrictions are all too commonplace, we also feel that little is gained by simply accepting a substandard or unacceptable state of affairs. NGA has, therefore, adopted standards that we feel reflect as realistically as possible the best or highest quality of practice. In many cases, best practice may go beyond what state law requires of a guardian.

In reading this document, it is important to recognize that some of the standards enunciate ideals or philosophical points, while others speak to day-to-day practical matters. Both approaches are critically important. It is not our ambition to prescribe a precise program description or management manual. Rather, we have sought to shape a mirror that practitioners and funders can use to evaluate their efforts. The standards also reflect the mandate that all guardians must perform in accordance with current state law governing guardianships and certification of guardians.

To ensure consistency in the way the standards are applied, the following constructions are used: "shall" imposes a duty, "may" creates discretionary authority or grants permission or a power, "must" creates or recognizes a condition precedent, "is entitled to" creates or recognizes a right, and "may not" imposes a prohibition and is synonymous with "shall not." The guidelines that appear in some standards are suggested ways of carrying out those standards.

This document embodies practices and standards from a number of professional sources. As such, it sometimes makes unavoidable use of legal and medical "terms of art" where they would commonly and most accurately be used by professionals who work in the particular area. In addition, the field of guardianship itself makes use of terms that vary widely from state to state. "Guardian" and "person under guardianship" or "person" are the terms used here to simplify the many references to these roles. Where points apply to professional, as opposed to family, guardians, they are indicated. "Guardian," as used in the standards, means guardian of the person, guardian of the estate or guardian of the person and estate, depending on the standard being addressed.

In this work we have drawn on a number of collective sources. First and foremost, have been NGA members who have contributed extensive time and energy and valuable input into the development of these standards. The Model Code of Ethics for Guardians, developed by Michael D. Casasanto, Mitchell Simon, and Judith Roman and adopted by the NGA, has formed the foundation from which the standards were developed. Other very important sources that helped in the creation of our standards of practice are the U.S. Administration on Aging, the AARP, the Center for Social Gerontology, the Michigan Offices of Services for the Aging, and the state associations from Arizona, Washington, California, Illinois, Minnesota, and Michigan. We thank everyone listed above and others for their ongoing commitment to the profession of guardianship.

The NGA Standards of Practice for Guardians were first adopted by the NGA Board of Directors and ratified by the membership in 2000. The 2003 edition of the Standards incorporates language that came forth from Wingspan 2001, the National Conference on Guardianship Reform. The 2007 edition provides minor clarification of the language in the earlier editions without any substantive changes. These Standards were used as a starting point by the 2011 Third National Guardianship Summit in developing new standards. The 2013 edition incorporates the Summit Standards.

Please be advised that any entity adopting these standards should give attribution to NGA.

 - B. The guardian shall strive to know the person's goals and preferences.

- IV. The guardian may disclose or assist the person in communicating sensitive information to the person's family and friends, as defined by the person, unless it will substantially harm the person.
- V. The guardian may refuse to disclose sensitive information about the person where disclosure would be detrimental to the well-being of the person or would subject the person's estate to undue risk. Such a refusal to disclose information must be reported to the court.

★ NGA Standard 12 – Duties of the Guardian of the Person

In making this determination there shall in all cases be a presumption in favor of the continued treatment of the person.

- II. If the person had expressed or currently expresses a preference regarding the withholding or withdrawal of medical treatment, the guardian shall follow the wishes of the person. If the person's current wishes are in conflict with wishes previously expressed when the person had capacity, the guardian shall have this ethical dilemma reviewed by an ethics committee and if necessary, submit the issue to the court for direction.
- III. When making this decision on behalf of the person, the guardian shall gather and document information as outlined in Standard 6 and shall follow Standard 7.

★ NGA Standard 16 – Conflict of Interest: Ancillary and Support Services

- I. The guardian shall avoid all conflicts of interest and self-dealing or the appearance of a conflict of interest and self-dealing when addressing the needs of the person under guardianship. Impropriety or conflict of interest arises where the guardian has some personal or agency interest that can be perceived as self-serving or adverse to the position or best interest of the person. Self-dealing arises when the guardian seeks to take advantage of his or her position as a guardian and acts for his or her own interests rather than for the interests of the person.
- II. The guardian shall become fully educated as to what constitutes a conflict of interest and self-dealing, and why they should be avoided.

 - H. The result, specifically whether the guardian was successful, what benefits to the person were derived from the efforts, and whether probable benefits exceeded costs;

 - J. The fees customarily paid, and time customarily expended, for performing like services in the community, including whether the court has previously approved similar fees in another comparable matter;
 - K. The degree of financial or professional risk and responsibility assumed;
 - L. The fidelity and loyalty displayed by the guardian, including whether the guardian put the best interests of the estate before the economic interest of the guardian to continue the engagement; and
 - M. The need for a local availability of specialized knowledge and the need for retaining outside fiduciaries to avoid conflict of interest.

★ NGA Standard 24 – Quality Assurance

- I. Guardians shall actively pursue and facilitate periodic independent review of their provision of guardianship services.
- II. The independent review shall occur periodically, but no less often than every two years, and must include a review of a representative sample of cases.
